EBARA Technologies, Inc. Joins Google+

Sacramento, California – December 15, 2011. EBARA Technologies, Inc., a leading manufacturer in the semiconductor industry for dry pumps, vacuum components and services is proud to announce we're the newest members of Google+.

EBARA proudly joins Google+. Google, the number one search engine, has integrated social media with the rest of the Google experience. Google+ will have similar functionality for EBARA as Facebook and LinkedIn have provided. We will soon be able to capture a significant audience of our employees, customers, and fans while accessing the industry's most up-to-date technological information. Find information on our latest products, upcoming tradeshow, quarterly newsletters, job opportunities, and service and repair tips in our weekly updates. Once again, we strive to enhance and further develop our social media strategies, providing you with the newest information on vacuum technology. Give us some feedback, and let us know what you think.
